Kentucky jeans in better condition, and the daily business, though not large, is much steadier. Chile Anxious to Retire.

NEW YORK, May 17.—[Special.]—Tribune's editorial: "Dispatches from Valparaiso announcing the conclusion of peace between Chile and Peru are credible, without being intelligible. Suspiciously vague as the terms of peace seem in the outline furnished from Valparaiso, they tend to confirm the announcement that the Chileans are known to have been anxious for a long time to retire from the conquered country."

Inquiry for a Body-Snatcher.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—[Special.]—The Star says the district commissioners are in receipt of a letter from R. C. Jensen, dated at 14 and 16 Ellis street, San Francisco, California, May 7th, 1883, stating that the writer, who is a woman, feels a deep interest in the welfare of one Vigo Jensen, formerly of California, and having been recently informed that a person of similar name was convicted of body-snatching about six months ago in this city, that it is of very great importance to her to know if said Vigo Jensen is the party she is looking for. She says he is about 45 years old, medium height, stout built, and is a native of Denmark. She thinks he is slightly pock marked. In his youth he was apprenticed to the drug business. He followed mining for some years in Humboldt, Nevada. They were married about fifteen years ago. He left his wife and child thirteen years ago to go as immigrant agent to Europe, but remained in the east and settled at Washington. Preparing for the Tight Rope.

From the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

The process of rejuvenating ancient democratic politics is something wonderful. Tilden is a boy again, and Hendricks skips like a youngster over the hill, and now even the saturnine Hubert [illegible] is reported to have renewed his youth and become as lithe and active as he was forty years ago. As the prospects of the party improve, the bloom of youth appears on the parchment visage of the old democratic [illegible].

Latest News from Japan and the Sandwich Islands.

YOKOHAMA, April 23.—The announcement that America's share in the Shimonoseki indemnity will be restored affords great satisfaction. English journals criticise the proceeding unfavorably, and say it was done for the purpose of winning sympathy in Japan. The better class of English refuse to echo these opinions, and rather credit the sincerity of America's action.

The United States tea bill, it is believed, will work favorably. Japan will encourage a better growth.

HONOLULU, May 3.—The Gazette insists that Chinese immigration be restricted to the requirements of the plantations, and says the United States, with her immense territory, can stand a large influx, while the islands, with an equal number, would become a dependency of China.

MONTANA.

The Threatened Cree Invasion.

HELENA, May 17.—[Special.]—Major Lincoln, Indian agent at Fort Belknap, states that information was received by Colonel Ilges, commanding at Fort Assinaboine, that the Canadian Crees were gathering their forces, preparatory to a general war. Three hundred lodges, under Chiefs Big Bear, Lucky-man and Little Pierre, are camped within twenty-five miles of Fort Walsh, preparatory to crossing the line into Montana, to avenge the loss of Crees killed in the late horse stealing raid. This information was brought to Colonel Ilges by trusty scouts, who had been at the Cree camp, and proceeded to Assinaboine to report. Colonel Ilges at once dispatched couriers to Fort Walsh, to the British authorities, commanding that they take immediate action in the matter, and prevent an Indian raid if possible. Couriers were also sent by Major Lincoln to Belknap agency, to recall his Indians, the greater portion of them being out at the foot of the Little Rockies after buffalo.

Colonel Ilges thinks the first attack will be made on Assinaboine and Gros Ventres, and that it will be a general war, in which case the stock interests of the country are bound to suffer and no man's life will be safe on the prairies.

Two companies of cavalry, under Captain Mardam, left Assinaboine Monday to intercept the raiding Crees who stole the horses of the Benton and St. Louis Cattle Company Wednesday morning last, with orders to make day and night marches if necessary.

The Indians at Belknap are contented and peaceable, and up to the present time had heard no Indian news to excite them. The major thinks this news will scare them somewhat, and that they will all be at the agency in a short time.

Riot on the Northern Pacific.

BOZEMAN, May 17.—The sheriff of this county received a telegram Tuesday night from Gallatin city, stating that a riot occurred among laborers on the Northern Pacific railroad, and that the town was in the hands of a mob. Ninety-Fifth General Assembly of the Church of the United States, at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, May 17.—The ninety-fifth general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States convened this morning.

Dr Johnson delivered the opening sermon, closing his remarks with a fervent appeal to the commissioners and the congregation to remember the perils of the church, and to pray to God for Pentecostal baptism, that the people and the ministry are baptized with love for the living God. The benediction was given by Rev. Dr. Hatfield, when it was stated by the clerk that morning and afternoon sessions would be held daily, with occasional evening sessions.

THE BREWERS.

Second Day's Proceedings of the National Association—Resolutions Adopted.

DETROIT, Mich., May 17.—The following resolutions were adopted at this morning's session of the brewers' association:

Resolved, That the founders of these states and their perpetual independent Union, while they created state and federal governments for the proper and prudent dispatch of public business, were careful to guard that personal freedom of citizens, which is the object of all well organized communities to preserve; that the only limit they placed to the action of an individual was where it invaded the rights of any of his peers, and that while it was the duty of the state to forbid offenses against property and persons, and punish in fact all of the laws, any and all attempts to prescribe dress, food or drink, or to regulate the private manners at the arbitrary will of the majority, are not only futile of themselves, mischievous in their consequences, and leading to tyranny on one side and contempt of the law on the other, but they are beyond the scope of the powers of any government established by the people.

THE BENEFITS OF MALT LIQUOR.

Resolved, That malt liquors being a drink and food recognized as healthful and needful by the instincts of the human race and the habits of temperate men, and whose consumption for centuries has been continuous with the growth, prosperity and progress of most civilized and enlightened people, and has passed beyond honest, intelligent controversy, and being only denied by idiots and fanatics, we, as brewers, have the same rights, neither more nor less, as any body of men engaged in a necessary beneficial industry and that we shall peaceably, firmly, under and by lawful means defend these rights, and in that defense we confidently ask the aid and co-operation of all honest men interested in the maintenance of good order, the preservation of rights and property, and freedom of person and in the free enjoyment of any innocent pleasure that does not infringe on the rights of others.

WILL VOTE IRRESPECTIVE OF PARTY.

The resolution further declared that the brewers, irrespective of party, will oppose that party which sustains equitable government and personal freedom, and that they will work against any party attempting to dictate to men what food and drink they may take. The resolutions also ask congress to reduce the tax on malt liquors one half, and to restore the tax on glass bottles to the old rate. The reason given for the reduction of the tax on malt liquors is that it is sound public policy, and in the interest of temperance and good order, that malt liquors, the least stimulant and the most nutritive of all alcoholic drinks consumed by man, have their consumption preferably encouraged by lessening the tax on them.

BAUM EULOGIZED.

Henry Rentler of Boston then eulogized the administration of Green B. Baum of the revenue department.

Resolutions of respect were adopted in honor of the members who had died during the year.

The literary bureau reported that $4000 had been spent during the year and a further appropriation of the same amount for next year was voted.

The committee on restrictive legislation recommends the employing of Senator Vest of Missouri at an expense of $2500 a year to plead the test case from Kansas under the prohibitory law. Also an appropriation of $2000 was voted to assist the Maryland brewers in their contests.

A resolution was adopted fixing the hop tare at 7 cents per pound. Several members addressed the convention in favor of vigorous means toward increasing the membership of the association, and thus its power and influence.

The president announced that the matter was receiving the attention of the trustees, in the appointment of a special committee to consider technical questions.

COMMITTEE ON NOMINATIONS.

The committee on nominations reported as follows: President, Herman L. Schumann, of Brooklyn; vice presidents, Henry Clausen, of New York, and Chas. G. Stifel, of St. Louis; treasurer, Wm. A. Miles, of New York; secretary, Rief and Kebenmeyer, of New York. The only changes in the board of trustees were the selection of Jacob Conrad, of Philadelphia, and Emil Schandein, of Milwaukee. E. W. Voigt, of Detroit, was nominated on the vigilance committee. Three tellers were appointed, and the convention then took a recess.

NEW YORK, May 17.—President Villard, of the Northern Pacific railway, returned from his tour of inspection, and submitted a report at a meeting of the board of directors. He says California has been blessed with sufficient rain to insure her farmers larger crops this year than perhaps ever before. In Oregon and Washington territory about 30,000 immigrants have settled, coming from eastern, middle and coast states. All cities and towns of Oregon and Washington territory have greatly improved, business is flourishing, and there is plenty of ready money. Crop prospects in western Oregon and eastern Washington territory are unusually encouraging. He estimated that 28,000 tons of grain will be gathered in eastern Washington and 45,000 tons in western Oregon. This is a large increase over any previous year.

DECISION AGAINST THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The secretary of the interior has decided adversely upon the application of the Northern Pacific for the withdrawal from settlement and entry indemnity lands lying twenty miles or more beyond the original alternate section granted in the charter, but has sanctioned the action of the commissioner of the land office in withdrawing indemnity lands adjoining alternate sections.

Withdraws from the Pool.

CHICAGO, May 17.—The Chicago & Rock Island has given notice of its withdrawal from the pool, so far as passenger business is concerned. The reason given for the step is that the pool as now arranged is simply a dead letter, as it cannot be carried out so long as the Milwaukee and St. Paul refuses to join.

NORTHERN PACIFIC LANDS.

Important Decision by the Secretary of the Interior in Relation Thereto.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Secretary of the Interior has delivered an opinion on the question submitted by the commissioner general of the land office, regarding the propriety of withdrawing from entry and settlement odd sections of land within the indemnity limits of the Northern Pacific railroad. The commissioner was of the opinion that the recent decision of the secretary had tended to reverse the usual practice of the land office in such cases, namely to withdraw the lands comprised within the granted and indemnity limits, on filing a map of definite location. In his decision the secretary holds this construction is to be placed on former decisions, and holds the matter as open for the consideration of the department. After quoting the granting act of 1864 and 1870, the secretary calls attention to the fact that they do not provide either specifically or generally for the executive

WITHDRAWAL OF LAND

Within the granted or indemnity limits. The power of debt to withdraw granted lands without such direction, is beyond question, says the secretary, and the authority to withdraw indemnity lands must follow; in fact, such authority has repeatedly been exercised. The company claim that the acts operate as a conclusive, to the exclusion of the right of entry in both the granted and indemnity limits, from the moment of fixing the route or definite location. This is undoubtedly true as regards granted lands, but to indemnity lands the law gives no title, but the right to acquire title by selection, based on a deficiency in granted lands. The acts place the whole subject under direction of the secretary of the interior, and it must be held that

THE POWER REMAINS IN THE DEPARTMENT

To adjudge when, in what manner and to what extent the statute exercises such control and direction, so as to give to the public as well as persons, a guarantee of all the rights and privileges granted by law. The secretary says: "I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that vast areas of lands public, but for the right of selection, are lying within indemnity limits, and are barred to settlement, and that the area of arable lands open to settlement is not great, when compared with the increasing demand, and a rapidly diminishing. If the company neglects to make its selections and takes advantage of the withdrawal heretofore made, or that may be made hereafter, to withhold lands within the indemnity limit from operation of the settlement laws, not actually needed to

MAKE GOOD THE LOSSES

They have sustained, it will be the duty of the department to revoke such order of withdrawal. In reply to your suggestion whether the withdrawal in the indemnity limits of this grant are to stand so far as made, I have to say that I am of the opinion that such withdrawal should, at least for the present, be maintained. I am further of the opinion that upon the filings of maps of approved, definite location, withdrawals of lands without the indemnity limits should be made by you, to the extent of the first indemnity limits. Such will be in accordance with practice heretofore pursued by your office in reference to withdrawal."

GAS WORKS.

The East Portland gas works are fast approaching completion. The buildings are finished and the retorts, of which there are three, are now being placed in position. The gas meter is thirty-one feet in diameter by fourteen feet deep, and will contain 10,000 feet of gas—ample for the needs of East Portland for some time to come. One mile and a half of mains have been laid and half a mile is yet to be laid, the pipe for which is on hand. It is expected that everything will be in readiness by the 1st of the month, when gas will be manufactured and furnished to consumers. The list of subscribers is somewhat limited at present but this is probably owing to persons holding off for the purpose of ascertaining the quality of the article to be furnished; and doubtless on this will depend the extent of the list. The price will be the same as that charged in Portland, viz: $4 per thousand. Providing a good article is furnished, its general use by business houses will only be a matter of time.

CELEBRATING.

An eccentric member of the ubiquitous Jones family—plain, simple, ordinary "John" Jones—dropped down from Oregon City on yesterday morning's train in a hilarious state of mind. It does not appear on what business he came, except perhaps, it being a gala day with Odd Fellows, he concluded to celebrate. He is a very odd fellow. He did not travel further than the Railroad saloon before he commenced to celebrate, nor did he go beyond that point to complete the festivities. He soon became so impressed with the "spirit" as to become too full for utterance, and he was kindly cared for by the proprietor till he recovered from the effects of his fullness. During the latter part of the day he acted as a circulating medium for the story that he had been drugged and robbed of $22 while in the saloon named, but this, of course, the saloonkeeper denies. Under the circumstances Jones cannot be a competent witness in the matter, and unless he furnishes more conclusive evidence his story must go discredited. However, he had a good celebration and should be satisfied.

The old wooden buildings now on the north side will be taken away and a brick building substituted. A new warehouse will also be built in close proximity to the present one. A complete set of new bolting apparatus will be put in, another run of burrs and three sets of rolls.

Sixty men are constantly employed by the association. Some are engaged in cutting poles; others, cultivating the vines; others, getting out poles, and still others running the sawmill at Snoqualmie falls, which has been rented by the association. Quite a number of buildings are being erected on the farm, including the largest improved structures for properly during their hops. OUR REPORTER'S VACATION NOTES.

During his rambles this season our Mr. M. has taken upon himself the task of satisfying our numerous readers that whatever goods are manufactured in our good city of Roger Williams are of as high a grade, and as fine in quality, as can be produced in any spot on the globe. Especially is this so when the skilled pharmacist of many years experience resolves an extract from the botanical specimens of the vegetable world the most potent cure for some special disease. In proof of this assertion that Providence, R. I., affords the best, he relates an interview with an acquaintance, given him while sojourning at her residence. She says: "About a year I suffered severely from rheumatism in my limbs and neuralgia in the head, which I endured two or three months with as much patience as possible, being under the treatment of an excellent doctor and trying many kinds of medicine without any marked effect. At last, a medical friend advised me to try Hunt's Remedy, because he attributed my severe suffering to the bad condition of my kidneys, which were not performing their proper functions, and I commenced taking it, and in a few days the neuralgia had departed, my headache had entirely disappeared, the swelling in my limbs and joints had gone, and I have not had a touch of it since. More recently I was troubled with impurity of the blood, which showed itself in severe eruptions on my face. I again resorted to Hunt's Remedy, and after taking it a short time was completely cured of that complaint. Hunt's Remedy has proved very beneficial to me in attacks of sick headache, which it always alleviates, and I notice the improvement as soon as I take the Remedy. This Remedy has strengthening elements, for it has made me feel much stronger, and has been very beneficial to my general health. I most heartily recommend it to all sufferers like myself. MRS. L. G. TANNER, No. 126 Pearl Street.

Great Praise.

ALBERT G. MANN of Cottage Home, Ill., says: "I have been prostrated for three or more years with kidney disease; at times I was not able to put on my boots; my wife has often pulled them on for me. I was not so bad as that all the time, but I never knew what it was to be without pain in my back until I commenced using Hunt's Remedy. Since I began to take Hunt's Remedy I have been free from all pain, and take pleasure in saying that it is the best medicine that I ever knew for kidney and liver diseases."

THE PACIFIC COAST AND WHEAT SHIPMENT.

An idea of the future of wheat shipment from this section, which a little reflection would easily show to be an exaggerated one, appears to be entertained by many of our people. In talking of the growth of industry and the extension of commerce, wheat is commonly spoken of as the all-in-all. It is supposed that the point which ships the wheat will thereby become the great commercial city, because the business will be so extensive and the profits so large as to throw everything else completely into the shade. This, we take it, is a very erroneous and exaggerated notion. A brief statement will explain.

Our geographical position is such that wheat growing with us is not a profitable business. Therefore growing wheat for export will not be our principal industry. Besides, it is mere waste. It impoverishes the soil, and therefore cannot continue long. Lands which yield thirty bushels an acre just now will drop to half that yield a few years hence. This is the experience of all localities where wheat has been cultivated as the leading and steady crop. Besides, as our towns and cities grow up, there will be better profits from market gardening, from fruits and miscellaneous crops, to be consumed at home; and more attention will be paid to the production of meats, from which better profits also can be had than from raising wheat for distant markets. It is well known that already large tracts of land in the Willamette valley and other localities have attained a value which makes the growing of wheat upon them quite unprofitable. Land at $40 an acre is too dear for wheat at the prices we can obtain at our distance from the final markets. In all probability we shall continue to make wheat growing for the foreign market a leading object only till conditions so change as to give our industries a new turn and wider development. This change cannot be far off.

To go more fully into the reasons which will render it impracticable to depend on wheat-growing as our leading industry, it is proper to take note of our position on the side of the American continent most distant from the European market. The voyage is a long one, and freights never can be low. We cannot find a market by sailing across the [illegible] the populations of those countries do not consume wheat-flour. And the European market can be supplied from [illegible] at prices which will leave us little [illegible] here. Railway competition, con- [illegible] lines, and extension of old [illegible] from the interior of [illegible] the Atlantic seaboard at rates [illegible] merely nominal in compar- [illegible] ten years ago; and steam from [illegible] Atlantic ports to Europe completes [illegible] without much further cost and in [illegible] time. From Chicago to New [illegible] by lake and rail for [illegible] and steamers often take it [illegible] to Liverpool for five cents or [illegible] so cheap a rate of transportation [illegible] on our Pacific slope contend at [illegible] disadvantage to themselves. Nor is the [illegible] likely to improve. There [illegible] of rates from this coast to [illegible] those from Chicago and New [illegible] a five-months' voyage will pro- [illegible] wheat-growing territory, situ- [illegible] the European market than we [illegible] rapidly opened in many parts of [illegible] India is becoming a great wheat [illegible] The consul of the United States at [illegible] ago called attention to the [illegible] the annual surplus of India [illegible] bushels, and that there was [illegible] this product incalculably. [illegible] and the short route opened [illegible] canal brings this vast [illegible] the door of the great European [illegible] extension of the Canadian [illegible] the west is opening a [illegible] wheat country, which [illegible] in millions of bushels [illegible] markets of Europe. There [illegible] wheat land of more than one [illegible] extending from Lake Winnipeg [illegible] Rocky mountains, which [illegible] by a railroad before the end [illegible] and this, through connection [illegible] railway system and the [illegible] immensely increase the im- [illegible] Montreal as a wheat market. [illegible] than, ever under the con- [illegible] will make larger crops, and [illegible] will be increasing produc- [illegible] situation upon routes of [illegible] countries are more accessible [illegible] our own; and consequently [illegible] enabled to pay more freight and [illegible] for our wheat than our com- [illegible] part of the world.

[illegible] are facts, it is well to consider [illegible] and to allow them their due weight. [illegible] together, they show why we cannot base [illegible] prosperity and wealth on rais- [illegible] distant markets. Shipments of [illegible] from the Pacific coast are go- [illegible] great sea-port here. Of far [illegible] will be our coasting trade. Doubt- [illegible] continue to ship cargoes of wheat [illegible] but there would seem to be small [illegible] believe that the business will ever [illegible] magnitude imagined by those who [illegible] it as the great result to come [illegible] development now promised for our [illegible] It will, in fact, be impossible for our [illegible] to grow rich or even to gain fair prosper- [illegible] depending on growing and shipping [illegible] against such odds as plainly exist. The [illegible] they have had on this point for [illegible] will very probably be deepened by [illegible] experience of the near future.

The telegraphic service of the northwest is [illegible]—miserably inadequate. It is impossible to get news service performed expeditiously, to the amount required, and commercial business is often delayed simply because the company has not wires to carry it. For the great increase of business which the northwest affords the company has provided no proper facilities. If note has been taken of the growth of the country and the demand for additional service the knowledge has not been acted upon. There can be no doubt that the managers on this coast do all they possibly can with the means at their command. But the company is controlled in New York by men who seem to have no proper knowledge of what this section requires; or if they have such knowledge, our distance is too great to admit of our wants receiving speedy consideration. Another wire ought at once to be hung between San Francisco and Portland, and two more would not be amiss. There ought also to be another from Portland to Puget Sound. This journal alone would furnish enough additional business, if it could get its matter carried, to pay a handsome income on the cost of putting up and operating another wire from San Francisco. If in any way we could reach the ears of the eastern managers we would entreat them to give the northwest a telegraphic service that would, in some degree, answer the demands of a rapidly growing business. At present the service is inadequate, vexatiously, miserably, inadequate.

Doubtless the "testimony" of a bawd and murderess is satisfactory and conclusive to those who have suborned the perjury through which she delivers it. Doubtless, too, it is good enough for a hoodlum organ; which hasn't the moral perception to see that "testimony" obtained from such a source and by such method is not equal in value to that delivered by witnesses of good reputation and honorable character.

Los Angeles papers advertise about 160 physicians in their city. The place is a "health resort."

Rents have reached the limit of their upward advance in New York city, and have begun to fall—the same sign that the end of an era of speculation is [illegible]

THE "PASSION."

Salmi Morse, the dramatic author and manager, has finally abandoned efforts to produce his "Passion" a dramatization of the life of Jesus, as presented in the writings of the evangelists. The churches throughout the country have protested against the performance of this piece, which is miscalled a "play" for the want of a more appropriate name, on the ground that it is sacrilegious; and to Morse's claim that it in no way violates the sacred dignity of its theme, it is replied that this theatrical representation of the divine life, however serious its performance, must from its nature be offensive to religious sentiment, and so to good morals. Urged by this feeling the religionists of the two or three cities where Morse has attempted to "put on" the "Passion" have contested his right to offend their sentiments, and construing several statutes enacted long ago to cover the case, they have gone with them into the courts and won. And so for the present the "Passion" is [illegible].

It is not surprising that the churches have opposed this representation. When the announcement of Morse's purpose was first made it came as a shock to sensibilities long trained in respect to the sacred character of Jesus, and objection to it was by no means limited to professing christians. But it may be doubted whether this feeling is not one of those prejudices which a more perfect knowledge would cure. The traditions of the stage as they float in the public mind, and particularly in the mind of the severely religious class, put it and all that pertains to it in such striking contrast to strict christian morality that the proposed representation seemed like a mesalliance of the good and the bad. It was felt, and not alone by religious people, that it was giving a holy thing as a sport for the vicious. Perhaps if the public had more and better knowledge of the modern stage and its methods, or had seen Mr. Morse's "Passion," the verdict would have been different. Theoretically, why should not a stage representation of the life of Jesus show the beauties of his goodness and teachings more clearly and impressively than the written story, just as the stage performance of "Hamlet" discloses nobilities which have escaped the reader?

It is only fair to say that of an intelligent audience of several hundred who saw a rehearsal of the "Passion" at San Francisco, not one person testified against its propriety, while all who have expressed their impressions approve it, not only as a noble dramatic performance but as a representation calculated to inspire a more perfect knowledge and a lofty respect for the character and the doings of Jesus. We believe that the prohibition which has locked up the "Passion" is wrong. The piece may be offensive—we do not assume to judge without knowledge—but if it is wrong it would soon be condemned by the people. The "Passion" should not be condemned unheard. Fifty years from now people will smile to read that their grandfathers applied the gag to a performance claiming great literary and moral merit which only asked a respectful hearing.

An ounce of fact often outweighs a mighty might bulk of theory and speculation. Though the bimetallist congress which held its sessions in France some months ago has issued a big volume and printed it in a dozen languages, containing a record of its proceedings and the arguments to support the theory of a "double standard," it will accomplish nothing. Theory is one thing, and may be a beautiful thing, even true, but it must have facts to support it. How values can be measured correctly and advantageously by two standards which are constantly changing their relative worth no one can see. Again, every one must see that not only in this country, but all over the world the price of silver as measured by gold, is very low and that therefore all big commercial nations are opposing the free coinage of silver. Italy has resumed specie payment on a gold basis. France, though using a double standard, is turning toward gold, and the same can be said of all continental countries, be their standards what they may. In face of such facts, any one except a silver king, who adheres to the silver craze, has certainly learned nothing from reading the effects of a depreciated currency.

The Chicago Herald says that Mayor Harrison was "beastly sober" when he made that Iroquois speech.

James Gordon Bennett estimates the value of the New York Herald at $10,000,000, and says it is paying 6 per cent. per annum interest on that amount.

Horse flesh is sold in some parts of London as beef. It has the peculiarly rosy appearance which people like, and it must be proved to be "unfit for the food of man" before its sale can be legally forbidden.

A tavernkeeper in Schuylkill county, Pa., is said to have died of grief because of a failure to secure a license to sell liquor. Many men have died because licenses were granted, and it is time the rule should work the other way.

The borers of an artesian well in San Bernardino, California, have encountered at the depth of 220 feet a tree which stands perpendicularly. Great pieces of the wood, which appears to be sycamore, are brought up in the pipes.

About 45 per cent of the land of the United States, nearly 1,000,000,000 acres in all, remains unsurveyed. Of this amount there are 369,000,000 acres in the Indian territory, 80,000,000 in Montana, 64,000,000 in Dakota, and 12,000,000 in Minnesota.

A married man in Rochester, according to the Post of that city, took a young lady to the theatre one night, and after the first act excused himself for a moment, as he wanted to get out and "see a man." He didn't come back. Instead of seeing a man he saw a woman. It was his wife waiting for him at the door.

Mezeroff's manifesto says that by a contribution of $1 from each Irishman a fund could be raised by which the crowned heads of Europe would be made to shudder. That is too much for a shudder. By the payment of $1 a man should be entitled to something more substantial than a shudder. Besides, how is he going to know that the tyrant really does shudder? Who will turn informer?

Lady Gordon had a very pretty daughter, whom she was exceedingly anxious should marry well. The girl had a lover, but he was only a lord. At one night, while at a ball given by the Duke of Devonshire, she and her lover eloped. When the news was broken to her mother the poor woman exclaimed: "Oh, heavens! on such a cold night and without her flannel petticoat, and it will be all my fault if she catches her death of cold, because I dressed her lightly to set off her delicacy before the Duke of [illegible]."

The Albany Express prints two letters written by Horace Greeley to the editor. One dated October 27, 1871 and in it Mr. Greeley said: "I long ago resolved that the next presidential canvass must await the close of this year's elections. I am still of that mind. I cannot say what others may or will do. For my part, I stand opposed to General Grant's renomination, and do not want to be run for vice president under him. I hope no serious effort will be made to run me. I expect to support the republican ticket whether I like the way it is made up or not." The other letter is dated February 9, 1872, and reads: "I greatly doubt the possibility of purifying primary elections, and I dread making them too imposing. [illegible] are known to be [illegible] frauds, and they don't have much weight. The purifying principle of our politics is bolting, and I mean to encourage resort to it."

The Lappeus Investigation.

Salem Statesman.

We are getting tired of hearing about the Lappeus investigation. The whole thing seems to be a farce. The idea of sending two young lawyers up here to investigate the matter and take the testimony of one of the most villainous convicts in the penitentiary seems to us to be the worst folly that we ever heard of. The idea of convicting a man on such evidence of malfeasance in office is the extreme of [illegible] and folly. It would be cheaper in the long run for Portland to pension the [illegible] who want Lappeus' place and let the matter drop. The [illegible] respectable portion of the community are [illegible] of having the papers fill it with this [illegible].

IN AND ABOUT COOS BAY.

Two Prominent Ship-owners Taking a Look at the Country—The Probable Object of Their Visit.

The Marshfield, Oregon, Coos Bay [illegible] of the 10th inst. says: Wm. R. Bosse of New Bedford, Mass., J. S. Knowles of San Francisco, S. [illegible] Chadwick of Salem, and F. T. Gilmore of Chillicothe, O., arrived on the bay last Friday. These gentlemen are here in the interest of the Oregon Southern Railway and Transportation Company. The two first named are strangers in this locality, but the two last named are so well and favorably known here that it would be [illegible] coming.

The party came from Roseburg [illegible] Messrs. Bosse and Knowles is to ascertain from personal [illegible] of the resources of this region and the inducements here offered to engage in business and [illegible] railway to Coos Bay.

J. S. Knowles formerly resided at New Bedford, Mass., but for [illegible] years past he has been a prominent shipping and commission merchant of San Francisco. He is a man of large [illegible] and is extensively interested in the shipping [illegible] of our coast and the development of [illegible] her most valuable natural [illegible] than quicksilver, petroleum and [illegible] to have such a man [illegible] inspect our resources, for by his [illegible]

There is not a [illegible] on the Pacific coast, nor in the United States, for that matter, [illegible] practically inexhaustible, and forests of valuable timber almost [illegible] are [illegible] when properly developed, and [illegible] unsurpassed elsewhere. As our hills become stripped of their trees our pasturage increases, and eventually this is destined to become a grazing country of great importance. As soon as there are facilities for [illegible] the shipment of beef cattle from this section of our state will assume a magnitude that will surprise croakers and men standing in the way of the [illegible] steamers. The mildness of our climate and the excellent grazing resources of the country render it comparatively easy to keep cattle in every month of the year at a trifling outlay for feed, and this will be done whenever we get within reach of any other than the home market, which until the last year or two has not been paying enough to induce farmers to invest in cattle for the block. While our neighbors east of the mountains and at some points on the coast north of us are entirely destitute of beef or paying from 30 to 35 cents per pound, we are reveling in luscious steaks at 12½ cents, that being the topmost price for the most choice cuts, and our markets are at all times supplied with meats of the first quality. Whenever it can be done, fat cattle will be shipped in winter and then our beef will cost us a trifle more.

But the capital is absolutely needed to bring about a proper development of our varied resources, which will lie dormant until it does come to the rescue with a railroad and an improvement of the entrance to the bay. Either will bring the other as a natural sequence. Men with means to build a railroad to Roseburg will possess sufficient influence to secure the necessary appropriation for the harbor improvements, and they will see that the money be judiciously expended and the work properly and systematically carried forward. Of this there can be no doubt in the mind of any sensible person.

The first section of the railroad, from the bay to the Coquille, will pay largely from the first start, and a railroad from Roseburg to the bay will prove one of the best paying roads in the United States. An immense business awaits it, but it is a business that cannot be carried on except by a railroad and never will be developed until a railroad reaches out for it.

Neither will our coal assume a proper standing point in the San Francisco market until the owners of the mines put suitable steamers of their own in the carrying trade between this place and that.

Just what view Messrs. Bosse and Knowles may take of the outlook remains to be seen. It is understood that a favorable report on their part will insure the building of the road and the placing of a line of steam colliers between here and San Francisco. Apparently they are men 55 or 60 years old, of experience and sound judgment, and we apprehend a favorable report from them to their associates. We cannot see how it can be otherwise. Here lies the wealth, waiting for some one to pick it up; but none but rich men can do it; if poor men could, it would have been done long ago.

On Saturday the party visited the Newport and Eastport mines, and also went to Empire to look into the Luse estate business.

In the evening they returned to this place, and Sunday they went over to Mystic Point.

Monday afternoon the visitors steamed to Pie bay and inspected the Southport mine, and Tuesday they went down and took a look at the bar.

Yesterday afternoon the steamer Bertha took the party up Coos river as far as the Luse marsh, after viewing which they returned and went to Empire, Messrs. Bosse and Knowles to prepare for their departure for San Francisco to-day.

Sons of Odd Fellows ... George ... aid.
Triumphal car, containing the following young ladies, daughters of Odd Fellows, dressed in appropriate costume: ... Fellows, ... Anna ... Jennette Pierson, Julia Carr, Ina Davidson, ... Hannah Stephenson.

The various divisions were designated by banners bearing such inscriptions as "Friendship Prompts Us," "Victory Crowns Us," "Truth Consecrates Us," etc. Each Odd Fellow was decorated with the regalia and insignia of his lodge and office. The line of march was taken up from the temple down First street to Stark, up Stark to Third, up Third to the Masonic temple, where a countermarch was ordered in honor of that order. Thence the procession marched to Main street, down Main to First, and down First to the O. R. & N. Co.'s ferry landing. Here a second countermarch was had, the ranks were broken, and each individual found his way aboard the ferry as best he could. The procession was followed to the ferry landing by a vast throng of people, purposing to take part in the basket picnic. The excursionists were transported to the other side, requiring three separate trips of the ferry to get them to the cars.

To this the company were summoned by a bugle call, at which signal the overhanging clouds, as if by previous arrangement, dispersed, and the sun shone out in summer splendor, lighting up a panorama of hill and dale, forest and stream, cultivated fields and cloud-capped mountains, which fully sustained the claim of the place to its title of Fairview.

As the officials who were to take part in the ceremonies mounted the platform some enthusiastic person fired off a number of sky rockets from a fence corner, and the photographers leveled their cameras at the group.

THE EXERCISES.

After music by the band Dr. George H. Chance, P. G., on behalf of the board of trustees of the home, delivered an address, giving the following account of the inception of the institution:

At the session of the R. W. grand lodge for 1879 the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It being the command of our laws that we visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead, and educate the orphan; and

WHEREAS, Our order has nobly performed its duty in visiting the sick, relieving the distressed and burying the dead; and

WHEREAS, Up to this time no organized effort has been matured whereby the care and education of our orphan children has been secured; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of five be and are hereby appointed to digest and mature a plan looking to the erection and maintenance of an Odd Fellows' home and educational institute, and report at the next session of this R. W. grand lodge.

The M. W. Grand Master appointed the following committee under the foregoing resolution: George H. Chance, P. G. of No. 2; W. J. Snodgrass, P. G. M. of No. 16; A. L. Stinson, P. G. M. of No. 13; C. E. Hoffman, P. G. of No. 2 and A. J. Marshall, P. G. M. of No. 15.

In the following year the committee submitted a report, from the signatures to which the name of A. L. Stinson was missing, he having in the interim passed over to the silent majority. The doctor concluded with an account of the progress of the Home, its prospects and its financial condition, dwelling with much satisfaction on the fact that it was the result of voluntary contributions, and the land and the materials for the building were all paid for and the board was indebted to no one. The farm and stock thereon, which cost $3100, is now worth more than double that sum. The Home building, 42x60 feet, two stories, with a basement, will cost about $6000, and will be completed this year if it can be done without incurring a debt. The foundation is already contracted for and will be completed forthwith.

The doctor's address was followed by a vocal quartette, who, accompanied by the band sang the following stanzas:

> Deep in the quarries of the Stone
>   Amid vast heaps of other rock;
> In darkness hid, to art unknown,
>   We found this rude and shapeless block.
>
> Now shaped by art, its roughness gone
>   And fit this noble work to grace
> We lay it here, a Corner Stone,
>   Chosen and sure, in proper place.
>
> Within this stone there lies concealed
>   What future ages may disclose,
> The sacred truths, to us revealed
>   By Him who fell by ruthless foes.
>
> On Him this corner stone we build,
>   To Him this edifice erect;
> And still, until this work's fulfilled,
>   May Heaven the workman's ways direct.

THE TRIP OUT.

The train provided for the Odd Fellows and their friends consisted of seven passenger coaches and five open cars, which were soon crowded with men, women and children, many clad in gum coats and waterproofs, and all armed with umbrellas, and who in any other country except Oregon would never have been taken for a party bound for a picnic. Indeed, to one unacquainted with the manners and customs of Oregonians, the contemplated excursion seemed to give promise of an early and extensive crop of orphans. But lowering skies had no terrors for the excursionists. At 10:45 the train started, and, rolling up the gulch of Mr. Sullivan, left the city behind, and spinning smoothly along soon rose to the level country, and passing through a tract where the land presents every stage of transition, from the primeval forest to smiling grain fields, and past snug farm houses, where the neighbors had collected to see the excursion, and where the traditional country boy sat on the fence to be seen by the excursionists, soon came in sight of the ... of the mighty Columbia now spreading far and wide and in sight of which the road ran till the destination was reached, the train stopping a few rods from the site of the Home. The excursionists alighted, the lunch baskets were handed out and all strolled down to take a look at the foundations of the projected building, around which were planted a number of tall poles, from the tips of which gay colored flags fluttered in the breeze.

THE ...

In a short time a bugle sounded the dinner call and the company repaired to a grove, near by, which had been trimmed out and furnished with convenient tables. These were quickly spread with refreshments and the serious business of the occasion commenced. Many visitors had come unprepared, but the daughters of Rebekah had provided sufficient food for an army and all were fed. A huge tank of delicious milk and a great cheese were sent up from the Home farm and furnished a welcome addition to the feast, during the progress of which the band discoursed some fine music. Dinner being over the company strolled over the ground and inspected the tidy garden and orchard belonging to the farm till the time set for the ceremony of laying the corner stone.

LAYING THE CORNER STONE.

The ceremonies connected with laying the stone then took place in the following order:

Grand Master J. A. Beyer said: "My brethren, we have assembled on this occasion to perform an interesting and important ceremony, one which we trust will have its proper influence upon your hearts and minds. The spot on which we stand has been selected upon which to erect an Odd Fellows' orphan's home, to be consecrated to the great principles of our order; and we are here this day to inaugurate the enterprise by laying the first foundation or corner stone in the structure with the solemn ceremonies befitting such an occasion.

The work so auspiciously begun can be consummated only by persevering effort and patient industry, and we should enter upon it with a determination to carry it forward to completion, until the cap-stone shall be brought with rejoicings and the edifice shall present beauty, symmetry and proportion every way adapted to the uses and purposes for which it is designed.

Before proceeding to the immediate duties of the occasion, it is right and proper that we invoke the divine blessing, without which no good work can succeed. Our grand chaplain will now address the throne of grace."

Acting Grand Chaplain A. M. Smith: ... who didst lay the foundations of the earth, and in whom alone we live and move and have our being, we ... thy blessing to rest upon the work which we this day begin; honor it with thy approving smile, and prosper it to its final accomplishment and to the glory of thy great name, and the happiness of all mankind. Amen."

Response by the brethren: "So mote it be!"

Grand Secretary J. M. Bacon ... read a list of the articles in the casket to be deposited in the corner stone, as follows:

A history of the home enterprise from its inception to the present time, and a programme of the day's proceedings ...

BRADLEY'S AUDACITY.

The Same Old Story, Enlarged and Built Up with Additional Fabrications Told by the Murderess in Her Prison Cell.

Constable Samuel Simmons, J. M. Beyer and James Gleason, who went to Salem especially in the interests of the judiciary committee of the city council, returned last night, having accomplished what they went for, after two days of hard work. Nobody doubted what Carrie Bradley, a convicted murderess, would testify, inasmuch as she had already told a story in favor of ... [illegible] ... But few expected that she would enlarge upon that story ... [illegible] ... plainly see how false was every word. ... [illegible]

When asked if Beebe had not suggested to her that the affidavit would help him to defeat the charge of bribery made against him by ... she emphatically answered "No."

"What induced you, then, to make this affidavit?" was asked her by Mr. Gleason.

"I thought it my duty to ...," she replied.

The following question, or rather series of questions, which foreshadows some developments of an interesting nature, was put to Bradley:

"In a conversation with J. ... in the county jail of Multnomah county, June 12, 1882, soon after receiving your pardon, in which you stated the parties had talked with you about a pardon, did you say that you had been advised to make an affidavit stating that you had paid Lappeus money to hush up the Brown murder and let you leave the country unmolested, and that if you did so it would aid in obtaining your pardon? And did you not say, 'This I hate to do, for I never paid Lappeus any money to hush up anything?' And then did you not ask, 'What is the best way to get an early pardon?' And did not ... answer, 'Go to Salem as soon as you can, and commence serving out your term of imprisonment. Be a good woman, fall back on Jesus, pray and sing and in two years we will get you pardoned out.' And did you not then say: 'I belonged to a Sunday school when I was a girl; I can pray and sing, and will go to Salem on Monday and be a good woman up there, and Watson, Mason and yourself do your best to have me pardoned out as soon as you can,' or words to that effect?"

All of the above Bradley declined to answer on the ground that Hoffman was her attorney.

Pete Sullivan also made a deposition, telling the story of his connection with the murder, substantially as it appeared in his confession when captured. He also said that Carrie told him when the murder was committed that he needn't be afraid, she had bought off Lappeus.

According to Bradley's testimony it was months afterward when the body had been found that she bought off Lappeus. The depositions of these two criminals were written down verbatim, without the aid of a stenographer, and will to-day be placed in the hands of Judge Adams, the chairman of the investigating committee. When Mrs. Reuben Thompson and Brother Haney have brought forward all their evidence some facts will be brought to the public notice, through the committee, that will quickly push aside the puppets and show up the real personages who are now making all this trouble and expense to the city.

AMUSEMENTS.

On this and to-morrow evening, Augustin Daly's greatest sensational drama, "Under the Gaslight," cast to the full strength of the California Theater company. The play will be produced with every attention to detail, and all the original scenic and mechanical accessories will be supplied. In addition thereto, a number of specialties will be introduced, among which may be mentioned Miss Ada Deaves, who, as "Peachblossom," will present her ever clog dance, and also her famous imitation of Kate Castleton, in the latest vocal craze, "For Goodness Sake Don't Say I Told You." James M. Ward will also appear in several songs and dances. As a singular coincidence, it may be mentioned that on the occasion of the original production of "Under the Gaslight" in this city, fourteen years ago, Miss Bates and Mr. Thayer appeared, and will, in the present presentation, sustain their original parts—Laura Court and Snorkey. "Frou-Frou" will be given at the matinee, Saturday.

ORCHESTRAL UNION EXTRA CONCERT.

The management of the Orchestral Union has arranged that the society shall give an extra concert, to take place on Friday, the 25th of this month, at the New Market theater. This will be the last of the public performances by the Union for the present season. The programme will for the most part be made up of carefully selected works from the programmes already given and chosen with special view to popular appreciation. Special tickets admitting to the concert will be issued at an early date to all honorary members and ... those who subscribed to the season just closed.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

James C. Murphy Kills Jimmie Kelly Near Salem and then Kills Himself.

An extra of the Salem Daily Talk yesterday has the following:

This morning about ... o'clock Sheriff Forward was notified that a terrible tragedy had taken place at the farm of W. ... Warner, ... of this city ... that two men had been killed. With his usual promptness the sheriff at once notified the coroner, and immediately ... [illegible]

After firing the shot, Murphy without stopping ... to see what had ... [illegible] ... turned back and went into the house, ... Brooks ... and also ... Murphy seated near the fire, and Mrs. Warner, smoking ... silent. Brooks at once told him that he thought it was his duty to notify the authorities in Salem of the crime that had been committed. To this proposition Murphy agreed, and expressed a similar opinion as to what he considered was due from Brooks in the interest of the law. "But," said he, "Fred, I'll be gone before you get back." Brooks then started for the door, and just as he opened it, Murphy called, "Fred!" Fred turned. Murphy made a rapid movement toward his pocket, drew therefrom a self-cocking Smith & Wesson revolver, clapped the same to his right temple and with the remark: "Here I go," fired the pistol, and sent a bullet crashing through his own head. He died as quickly as did Kelly, and he remained in a sitting posture. The ball entered the ... temple just in front of the ear, passed out of the left temple directly opposite the point of entrance, and buried itself in the wall of the room. Brooks, as fast as his horse could carry him, rode to town to notify Sheriff Forward.

When the sheriff arrived at the farm he found Kelly in the barn-yard, cold and stiff, and Murphy sitting in his chair his legs spread apart, his chin dropped upon his breast, and his pistol and pipe on the floor between his feet. Two barrels of the pistol had been discharged, but only one gave evidence of recent use.

Murphy once stabbed a man by the name of McNary in this city, while on one of his drunken sprees, and during the time he was confined in the county jail Sheriff Forward was informed that the man was an ex-soldier and had served a term at Fort Alcatraz for some criminal offense. There is nothing known of Kelly. Like Murphy, he was very quarrelsome when in his cups. To look at him it is to tell at once that his name is not Kelly, and that instead of being an Irishman he was a German. He spoke German fluently.

The remains have been brought into town and are now at the undertaker's establishment, where they will be prepared for burial.

SAN FRANCISCO'S GREAT FESTIVAL.

The greatest musical event of our time, as far as the Pacific coast is concerned, commences at San Francisco, June 6, and continues on each afternoon or evening for a week. It will be the first appearance on the coast of the eminent conductor, Theodore Thomas, whose name has become, in America at least, a household word. He brings with him from New York his entire symphony orchestra of seventy-five instruments, and will enlarge this from the choicest musical material in San Francisco to 100. In addition, a mammoth chorus of 700 voices has been secured, which is now being rehearsed by D. W. Loring, conductor of the Loring Club of San Francisco. Miss Emma Thursby returns with Thomas for these concerts. Madame Rive-King is the solo pianist. Franz Remmertz will be the basso, and he is among the greatest exponents of Wagner music. The other soloists from the east are Mrs. Humphrey Allen, Mrs. Hartdegen (nee Norton) of Cincinnati, Miss Belle Cole, contralto, and F. Harvey. The programmes are calculated to suit the most fastidious taste. In view of the fact that such a combination may not soon be heard again on this coast, and remembering the hearty appreciation with which Madame Rive-King was received here, Mr. Locke has arranged that 100 choice season seats may be secured to those who wish to attend the festival from this city, as also a limited number of single admission tickets. Mr. Kinross will have charge of the disposal of these seats at Prentice's music store, where they may now be selected, upon a chart of the grand pavilion in which the festival will be held.

NOTABLE STEAMBOAT TRIP.—On Wednesday the government snag boat made the trip up the Columbia river from the lower Cascades to the foot of the Cascades canal, without any especial effort, carrying from 120 to 135 pounds of steam. The stage of water being forty-three feet above low water. She passed Garrison rapids, and Sheridan rapids with ease, and at the Middle Block House rapids, over which no steamer has heretofore been able to pass at high water, she hung for a moment only, but with an additional five pounds of steam passed them. Big Eddy rapids did not even check her speed, and without any further trouble the foot of the locks were reached. This news will be of considerable interest to all steamboat men and others, and shows the value of the improvements already made in the river, which, although intended to benefit low water navigation, have also improved the higher stage, and it may be considered perfectly safe and practicable for strong steamers to reach the foot of the canal up to a high water stage of thirty-five feet.

RECKLESS DRUNKENNESS.—Charles Price, the gray-haired insurance solicitor, is behind bars once more. He has been on a violent spree for several days, and last night, about 11 o'clock, went into the United Carriage Company's stables, corner Second and Oak, where he fired off his pistol fortunately doing no damage. The shot occasioned some excitement and several rushed to the scene. Price was taken to the city jail, and for his own safety as well as the safety of others was locked up for the night.

ADJOURNED.—Last night the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows held its final session. The officers elected and the following appointees by Grand Master Stinson were installed: R. Alexander, grand marshal; C. I. Palmer, grand guardian; H. H. Holmes, grand conductor; Jasper Wilkins, grand Herald; H. M. Smith, grand chaplain. The lodge then adjourned to meet one year from this time at Astoria.

Grand Treasurer I. R. Moores then presented the box to the grand master, who placed it in the cavity prepared for it and adjusted the stone to its place.

Past grand master James E. Hazeltine, of the grand lodge of Maine, (receiving from the grand warden the vessel containing water). In the name of friendship as pure as this water (sprinkling it three times upon the stone), I lay this corner stone; and as it here forms the basis of this edifice, binding together in harmony and consistency the component parts of its superstructure, so may true friendship ever constitute the foundation of our social fabric, and unite the family of man in one fraternal brotherhood.

Response: "So may it be!"

Past Grand Master D. W. Welty of the grand lodge of California, (receiving from the grand chaplain the wreath of flowers). In love, symbolized by these flowers (strewing them three times over the stone), I lay this corner stone; and as it underlies and supports this material temple, so may love ever be the chief foundation stone of the moral temple of our order; and the divine sentiment of love ever animate the hearts of all its votaries.

Response: "So may it be!"

Past Grand Master H. Vintler of the grand lodge of Washington, (receiving from the grand conductor the vessel containing wheat). In truth, represented by this wheat (strewing it three times over the stone), I lay this corner stone; trusting that truth may ever prevail over error; and that its good seed, sown in our hearts may bring forth its peaceful fruits in our lives. May the building here to be erected for the inculcation of truth, ever remain unshaken by the storms of time; and our beloved order ever rest securely upon the rock of ages.

Response by the brethren: "So may it be!"

Past Grand Patriarch E. L. Bristow of the grand encampment of Oregon and Washington (giving three blows of the gavel upon the stone): "In benevolence and love, I lay this corner stone, earnestly praying that as it is firmly fixed in this solid foundation, so may those cardinal virtues immutably remain in our organization, and be the constant practice of our order."

Response by the brethren: "So may it be."

[illegible] (receiving trowel from architect): [illegible] cement binds together the stones of the [illegible], so may the cement of brotherly affection bind [illegible] during all the days of our lives here [illegible], and so may the cement of divine love, in our [illegible] good time, unite us as living stones in [illegible] above, "the house not made with hands, [illegible] in the heavens."

[illegible] "So may it be."

[illegible] Master Charles E. Sitton then made [illegible] proclamation: By direction of the [illegible] grand master I declare this corner [illegible] according to the regular and ancient [illegible] that is to rise upon it, de[illegible] the building work of Odd Fellowship. [illegible] blessing upon the poor, the [illegible] and the destitute, and open up [illegible] for their relief. Bless the [illegible] in their affliction, and give [illegible] hearts and open hands to aid [illegible] wants.

[illegible] of Love, that the period [illegible] and strife and war shall [illegible] earth, and the reign of [illegible] established—when the law [illegible] hearts, and the nations, [illegible] of the earth shall be united to[illegible] brothers, and shall acknowledge [illegible] and to Thee we will ascribe all [illegible] dominion, now and forever.

[illegible] to the pavilion to listen [illegible] address by Past Grand Master [illegible]

[illegible] Members of the Grand Lodge, [illegible]: As an association, [illegible] is designed for and adapted to the [illegible] good. While as an incident [illegible] order each member is required [illegible] of his lodge yearly dues, [illegible] is entitled to receive from [illegible] allowance as benefits, Odd [illegible] beneficial society. It has [illegible]. It is designed to subdue the self[illegible] human heart, and to break [illegible] ignorance, prejudice and [illegible] men. It seeks to bind the [illegible] together in the bonds of [illegible]. Its charities are not con[illegible]. By virtue of the laws of its [illegible] duties to its members [illegible] orphans; but it inculcates a [illegible] race—a benevolence which [illegible] or nationality. If there [illegible] the order who, interpreting its [illegible] principles by their own selfish and [illegible] only as a beneficial society, [illegible] Fellows in spirit and in truth, and [illegible] the design of the order or [illegible] mission among men. We [illegible] the hand of an Odd Fellow should [illegible] to supply the wants of the needy and [illegible] and that God has made of one blood all [illegible] men that dwell on the face of all the [illegible]

[illegible] rightly to estimate the value of the [illegible] important question is not how many lodges [illegible] members, or how many grand juris[illegible], or how many costly temples it has [illegible], or how much property it owns, or even how [illegible] money it expends annually for relief; but [illegible] how much it has done to make [illegible] wiser and better. The prin[illegible] fraternal association for the mutual pro[illegible] and to promote the common welfare, [illegible] rooted in the civilization of the age. So [illegible] it come to be understood that "in [illegible] strength," and that association may be made [illegible] of power, and a lever of progress, that [illegible] notably in church and benevolent [illegible] many of the branches of hu[illegible] industry. The rapid spread of Odd Fellow[illegible], its wonderful growth in numbers, wealth and [illegible], and the growth of kindred institutions, [illegible] which antedated the birth of American Odd [illegible] and many of which have sprung into [illegible] in our own times, all founded to some ex[illegible] upon the principle of universal brotherhood, [illegible] that mankind begins to learn that [illegible] life is a condition of dependence and "that [illegible] man liveth to himself alone." The history of American Odd Fellowship affords a forcible illustration of the advantages of the association for mutual aid and benevolent purposes. Brief as has been the period of its existence, it has proved to be not only [illegible] adapted to afford mutual relief to its members, but to be a powerful agency in the promotion of good will among men. Its past history gives promise of its future usefulness. With a present membership of more than half a million good men, and true, earnest, active workers selected from every profession and walk of life, battling for equality and fraternity and steadily pushing its conquests and increasing its membership, it is designed to wield a great and ever increasing influence upon the institution of human society. It is impossible to calculate the influence of the doctrine of brotherhood, inculcated by our order and kindred institutions, and which has become so largely diffused among the nations in promoting the happiness of mankind.

It is more effective than armies and navies for the preservation of peace. It mitigates the horrors of war. It protects the rights of the weak against the aggressions of the strong. It prompts to the relief of the suffering and the consolation of the distressed, and to the erection of hospitals, homes and educational institutions for the afflicted, the distressed, and the needy. I do not design to claim for Odd Fellowship in this regard more than is its due. I do not overlook the influence of the many other benevolent organizations in promoting fraternal relations among men. Neither am I unmindful of the fact that the founder of christianity taught the brotherhood of the race or of the powerful influence which the christian religion has exerted in spreading this sentiment around the nations of the earth. No religion can claim to be a bible religion which does not teach that God is the Father of all the race and that all men are brothers.

"He prayeth best who loveth best
All things both great and small,
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all."

But I have not come here to pronounce an eulogy upon Odd Fellowship. An institution which in little more than half a century of its existence has grown until it has over half a million of members, whose membership, although it has been gathered from different classes and pursuits with diversity of opinion and conflicting ideas upon religion and politics, is bound together by the ties of brotherhood—an institution which not only administers relief to its members, but cares for the two or three millions dependent upon them so that they never become objects of charity—an institution which has its lodges in almost every town and city in the United States and which embraces in its membership many of the best citizens of every community, and whose charities are, like its history, as familiar in the country of its birth as household words—needs no eulogy.

Its origin, history, principles and symbolism are known to you all, and I am too much in earnest upon the subject of an Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home and too much interested in the speedy erection of the building of which we this day lay the corner-stone to spend the time allotted to me on this occasion in entertaining you with generalities upon the theories, achievements and glories of the order. We have assembled for the purpose of laying, with appropriate ceremonies, the corner stone of a building to be erected as an Odd Fellows' orphans' home.

At the annual communication of the R. W. Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F., [illegible] of 1878, [illegible] Brother George H. Chance, P. G., [illegible] was adopted for the appointment of a committee of [illegible] to digest and mature a plan looking to the erection and maintenance of an Odd Fellows' Home and educational institute, and to report at the next session of the grand lodge. The committee appointed consisted of Bros. George H. Chance, P. G.; W. J. Snodgrass, P. G. M.; A. L. Stinson, P. G. M.; C. R. Hofman, P. G., and A. J. Marshall, P. G. M. At the next annual communication the committee reported in substance, recommending the levying of an assessment of twenty-five cents for each member per term upon the subordinate lodges of the jurisdiction, the moneys so raised to be kept in a separate and distinct fund from all other funds held in trust by the grand lodge, and to be known as the "Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home and Educational Fund;" such fund to be taken charge of, loaned and managed by five trustees, to be elected by the grand lodge from among its members. At the next annual communication of the grand lodge, in consequence of doubts having arisen in the minds of some of the brethren as to the right of the grand lodge to levy a special assessment upon subordinate lodges for the purchase of land and the erection of buildings thereon for the purpose of an Odd Fellows' orphans' home, it was among other things, resolved by the grand lodge that the contemplated purchase of land and erection of buildings thereon for an Odd Fellows' orphans' home, and keeping of the same in repair, should be by voluntary donations, contributions and bequests from lodges or individuals. The home will therefore be erected and maintained by the voluntary gifts of the members and friends of the fraternity. It is not my purpose to follow the history of this undertaking. It fully appears in the proceedings of the grand lodge, where it will remain a perpetual record to the credit of the grand lodge and the honor of those brethren who, as trustees of the fund, have labored with such intelligent zeal and perseverance for the success of the undertaking. Through their efforts, and I believe no member of the board of trustees will object to my saying mainly through the exertions of the chairman, Bro. Chance, an available fund amounting to about $8,000 has been raised. Out of this fund this tract of land, containing 100 acres, has been purchased, the plan for the Home building prepared and adopted, the foundation laid ready to receive the corner stone. The plan of the building, which has been adopted, is so designed that while for the present it is only intended to erect such a building as is thought necessary for the immediate wants of the order in connection with the Home farm, as additional accommodations are demanded additional portions of the building may be erected in conformity with the plan. The plan as a whole contemplates not only accommodations for indigent brethren, widows of deceased brethren and Odd Fellows' orphans, but school and library rooms. To finish the portion of the building now proposed to be erected according to the plan, and furnish it so as to meet present demands, will require additional subscriptions to the amount of at least $8000. Located within a convenient distance from the metropolis of the state, near a station upon what is shortly to be a portion of two great transcontinental lines of railroad, easy of access to all the transportation lines of the state, convenient to the district school, in a healthy neighborhood, surrounded with beautiful landscapes [illegible] and commanding a view of the great river [illegible] of the west and of the snow-capped mountains, it must be conceded, I think, that the site for the home has been wisely [illegible] selected. The plan of the institution adopted by the trustees, I believe, will commend itself to the judgment of every Odd Fellow. No ostentatious display of benevolence is to be made. No massive structure for the purpose of magnifying the munificence of the order is designed. What is needed is a home from whose threshold the worthy applicant needing assistance will never be turned away, and where the charities of the order may be economically bestowed. A home where, while the necessities of life are bestowed upon those needing assistance, sympathy and love shall administer consolation to the sorrowing and distressed. A home which shall furnish employment for those of its inmates able to labor, so that in them habits of industry may be formed and a spirit of independence cultivated and maintained. It is not designed that the Home shall be a place of permanent residence for orphan children. The idea is rather to furnish a temporary home for them and make the organization an agency by which permanent homes shall be provided for them in the families of the brethren or others, where they will be brought up to habits of industry, receive the rudiments of an education and be taught self respect and self reliance. In a word, it is designed that as far as possible the orphans of deceased brethren while inmates of the Home shall perform like tasks and receive the same advantages for an education as the farmers' boys and girls in the neighborhood.

Odd Fellowship followed the pioneers of civilization to this state and established its lodges. It contributed its influence to the establishment of law and order, and aided in the relief of distress incident to new countries with a migrating population. It has kept pace with the growth of the state and to-day shares in the general prosperity. But with the increased prosperity of the country and the rapid increase of our population by immigration, enlarged opportunities will be afforded the order for a practice of its tenets, and greater demands will be made upon us for relief.

The time has come when such a home as this is intended to be has become an imperative necessity to the order in this state.

Brethren, I have in this hasty manner referred to the origin, history and objects of the Odd Fellows' Orphans' Home, and briefly explained to you the plans of those having it in charge. I have stated to you the present condition of its treasury and its needs. I have endeavored to show you that the home is needed, the location admirable, and the proposed building adapted to the wants of the fraternity. The plan has been well considered, and, if subject to criticism at all, it contemplates too little and demands too moderate a present outlay. The building will be completed. As the necessities of the order require it, it will be enlarged, and when it shall no longer be adequate to the wants of the fraternity a larger and more enduring building will be erected upon its site, or at least under the auspices of the same organization. The order in this state is morally pledged to the completion of this building and to the faithful management of the Home. While Odd Fellowship endures the Home will be perpetuated. I am not going to beg for the money required for the completion of the building. It is not necessary to beg of Odd Fellows for such a cause. Many of the members have already contributed nobly to this object, and if there are any who have not done what they could do I am satisfied it is because the opportunity has not been given to them or the necessity has not been understood by them.

For the trustees, on behalf of the grand lodge and of the fraternity at large, I desire to thank the lodges and brethren who have so liberally and cheerfully given of their means for the Home. May they receive in the consciousness of well doing, of having sacrificed, it may be, for the relief of the distressed and for the good of those who shall come after them an abundant reward.

Brethren, it rests with you to say what shall be the future of the home. What more deserving charity appeals to you for aid to-day than this institution, designed for a refuge in time of trouble for distressed brethren and the needy widow and orphan? Upon what charitable object can you bestow your benefactions with better assurance that your gifts will be safely kept and sacredly applied to the object intended than to this institution, created by and to be maintained under the patronage and government of the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., of Oregon. What nobler monument can you erect to your memories than to endow such an institution as this? Let us not forget, in the contemplation of the achievements of Odd Fellowship, of the great results which by the statistics of our order it is shown to have accomplished, our individual obligations as members. The honor and the usefulness of the institution are largely in the keeping of each member, and it is for each brother "to bear aloft the standard of the order as if he alone were responsible for its display upon the world's field of action." When each individual member shall faithfully discharge his duty, and not until then will Odd Fellowship exert its legitimate influence upon the world. As the mighty river which sweeps almost at our feet, upon its way to the sea, bearing upon its bosom the commerce of nations, is made up of ten thousand streams which take their rise in the snow-capped peaks of the mountains, so it is in the influence of the individual members of our fraternity, which united swells the volume of its influence into a mighty moral force, which, under the good providence of the supreme ruler of the universe, is grandly aiding in elevating the physical, moral and mental condition of the race, and in fraternizing the world.

At the conclusion of the address a benediction was pronounced and the band played "Home, Sweet Home."

The greater portion of the company returned home by the 3 o'clock train, but a number remained and enjoyed themselves in dancing till 5:30, when they returned by the regular train.

The excursion, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, was a grand success, owing to the admirably planned and executed arrangements of the committee in charge, and the intelligent, prompt management of trains under the personal supervision of H. S. Rowe, superintendent of the railway division of the O. R. & N. Co.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Kentucky Democratic Convention.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—At the afternoon session of the democratic state convention the committee on permanent organization reported in favor of Hon. Isaac Caldwell of Louisville as permanent president, with one vice-president from each of the eleven congressional districts, which report was adopted, as was the recommendation to drop the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes on each ballot, and the lowest on each succeeding ballot until a nomination was reached for each office. The committee on credentials reported that out of 117 counties represented there were but three delegations which were contested. These were arranged harmoniously. The following gentlemen were placed in nomination for governor: Thomas L. Jones, Proctor Knott, Simon B. Buckner, Chas. D. Jacob, and M. Horseley. The first ballot resulted as follows: Jones, 305½; Knott, 183½; Buckner, 144½; Jacob, 20½; [illegible]. The 730 votes were cast; necessary to choice, 366. The convention took recess at 6:00 to 8 P. M. The committee on resolutions will not report until to-morrow.

The second ballot was [illegible] the first. At the conclusion of the third ballot the name of Chas. D. Jacob was withdrawn [illegible]. The sixth ballot stood: Jones, [illegible]; Knott, [illegible]; Buckner, [illegible]; Horsley, 101. The convention [illegible] at midnight. [illegible] finally [illegible] adjournment [illegible]. Friends of [illegible] candidates [illegible] intervals for to-morrow.

The Irish Agitation.

DUBLIN, May 16.—A meeting was held [illegible] support of the [illegible] testimonial. [illegible] the speech was greeted with cheers.

A Neat Bid for Himself.

PITTSBURG, May 17.—The Herald publishes a letter from Governor Butler of Massachusetts to a prominent colored politician, advising colored voters to ignore party lines and support just and tried men.

For troublesomeness, weakness, dizziness and lack of energy, a most valuable remedy is Brown's Iron Bitters.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, May 17.

For several days the weather has not been of a character calculated to boom trade. Alternate sun and rain has proved disagreeable, checking trade to a great extent. Country steamers continue to bring good freights, including in their lists such articles as flour, hay, onions, potatoes, barley, provisions, dried fruits and vegetables, which find a good market here. In return we ship flour, wool, [illegible] quantities of dried fruits at low prices. High prices in some lines of produce [illegible] for quantities, and the ups and downs of the markets [illegible] checked.

Freights are very quiet, with no business either in spot or futures at this writing. The last spot charter here was at 63s. 6d. [illegible], the last in futures at 57s. [illegible] September charter reported Monday. Ship owners have raised their pretensions 2s. 6d. and will not duplicate late charters. Vessels are at San Francisco that have lain there for months; some evidently intend prolonging their idleness, while some are seeking business. With the assurance of a heavy yield of wheat, ships claim they have the advantage. Wooden ships in port want as much as hands [illegible] have secured, and as they are not sought after for almost [illegible], they will doubtless summer here.

Wheat is in no business. Large arrivals at foreign ports have depressed the English market, and some quotations are lowered. Eastern and San Francisco markets have felt this influence and are weaker. Our millers are running short hours.

Flour fairly steady, with little or no export business at present. The two ships now here take but 100 tons, and this only for stiffening. We are sending considerable to California, which goes upon a very slow and weak market. Eastern Oregon millers are cutting rates here.

Oats firm at full prices. Receipts are equal to the demand, which has given way to a noticeable extent to ground feed. No shipping movement.

No market for wool as yet. Eastern Oregon is sending quite freely for this time of year, much of which goes forward to meet a market. Local mills have taken up small lots at a price supposed to be about 17 cents. These are the only sales made, as no outside buyers are yet here. The eastern markets are far from showing any activity, while San Francisco reports an increased business. Buyers pick the choicest lots, leaving ordinary [illegible] inferior alone.

Mill feed firm and supplies are had from California. [illegible] valley millers report a lessened demand at their doors and will ship to this market.

Potatoes have ruled so high that the interior has sent in more freely and to-day values are broken. Jobbers are better stocked, being, for a time, independent. Values must rule high until new are asked for.

Dried fruits firm, without change in prices. The movement is steady.

Provisions firm at full prices, notwithstanding increased receipts brought forward by high values.

Green apples of choice quality are wanted at full prices.

Butter weak, under a lower San Francisco market.

Chickens selling at about $6, as to quality and supplies from day to day.

Eggs fairly steady at the late decline. Receipts this week have been large, but at the close are falling off.

Hides quiet with only a fair business doing.

Hay wanted at full prices. Supplies are coming forward from outside points and even California.

Grain bags weak, with values tending downward. California must have a large stock, else present low prices could not rule. An upward turn before harvest is altogether probable.

General merchandise markets generally firm, with a good trade doing.

Fresh meats steady, with less difficulty in procuring supplies.

Receipts in the past twenty-four hours have been 220 bbls flour, 200 ctls oats, 20,083 lbs bran, 130 sks potatoes, 20 bls hay, 8 bxs butter, 215 doz eggs, 12 bxs fruit.

One of the Seven Wonders of the World!

Youth and Old Age go Hand in Hand!

The Secret of Perpetual Youth Revealed.

How the Old may Become Young and how the Young may Always Remain so.

FACTS ARE STRANGER THAN FICTION

Traditions and Usages of the North American Indians give Valuable aid to Science.

The maidens of the famous Seneca tribe of Indians who once roamed over the picturesque and beautiful valleys and lofty hills of the upper Allegheny river now the famous oil regions of Pennsylvania, were noted among all the neighboring tribes for the wealth and beauty of their tresses, which were of remarkable length and exquisite fineness of texture, and the color so black that the shade of the raven's wing was hardly a just comparison; an elegant background that brought out the olive brown complexion of the maidens, and formed an exquisite and charming picture of savage female loveliness delightful to behold. Why their hair was of such rare beauty and of such extreme length was a deep, puzzling mystery to the maidens of all the neighboring tribes, and was a source of continual jealousies on their part. It has long remained a mystery, and would no doubt have died away altogether with the rest of the Indian traditions, but for the discovery of the petroleum oil furnished the clue, and unfolded how petroleum—the great secret which had remained sealed in the Third Sand rock of oblivion until released by the hand of scientific industry, it gushes forth in treasures of petroleum to the world. But the knowledge was practically useless to the prematurely bald and gray, as no one in civilized society could tolerate the use of refined petroleum as a dressing for the hair. But the skill of one of our chemists has overcome the difficulty, and by a process known only to himself, he has, after very elaborate and costly experiments, succeeded in deodorizing petroleum, which renders it susceptible of being handled as daintily as the famous eau de Cologne. The experiments with the deodorized liquid on the human hair were attended with the most astonishing results. A few applications, where the hair was thin and falling, gave remarkable tone and vigor to the scalp and hair. Every particle of dandruff disappears on the first or second dressing, and the liquid, so searching in its nature, seems to penetrate to the roots at once, and set up a radical change from the start. It is well known that the most beautiful colors are made from petroleum, and by some mysterious operation of nature the use of this article gradually imparts a beautiful light brown color to the hair, which, by continued use, deepens to a black. The color remains permanent for an indefinite length of time, and the change is so gradual that the most intimate friends can scarcely detect its progress. In a word, it is the most wonderful discovery of the age, and well calculated to make the prematurely bald and gray rejoice. The name "Carboline" has been given to the article, and is put up in a neat and attractive manner and sold by all dealers in drugs and medicines. Price, One Dollar a bottle.

From Dr. Thomas B. Eagle.

PRINCETON, Ch., June 16, 1882.

Messrs. SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston:

GENTLEMEN—I take pleasure in certifying that I have sold DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY for twenty years, and know it to be one of the oldest as well as one of the most reliable preparations in the market for the cure of COUGHS, COLDS and THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. I know of no article that gives greater satisfaction to those who use it, and I do not hesitate to recommend it. I have sold it to many who have been suffering from the effects of Colds and Catarrhal Affections of the Throat and Lungs, and in no instance have I heard of a single complaint against what is claimed for it by the manufacturers. I can cheerfully recommend it as one of the best and safest remedies for Coughs and Colds in the market. Yours truly,

THOMAS B. EAGLE.
